The Yuma County Rail Corridor and Logistics Study will identify freight rail-related economic development opportunities for the Yuma Region.

Drop by any time during the times listed and talk with study team members.

Your input will help shape the study's process and outcome.

Why study this region?

Yuma Metropolitan Planning Organization (YMPO) and its partners believe that economic development and job creation opportunities exist for the region. The following assets make it a strong candidate for freight industry development:

- Proximity to key ports in Southern California and Western Mexico
- Existing rail presence
- Robust transportation network
- Agricultural productivity and export
